

CAPE KIDNAPPERS

Cape Kidnappers is not true links terrain, with the wrinkles of sand dunes; instead the land tilts toward the sea as a series of ridges jutting out toward the edge of the cliffs. Yet, the play is seaside golf at its finest. The surface is firm and fast, the conditions can be windy, and the player who can control his trajectory will be master of the course. You'll hit shots over the tops of the tea trees, and play along the edges of deep ravines. If you stray on your approaches, you'll actually hope to get caught up in bunkers hanging off the green's edge, some of them deeper than you've ever seen before. At the twelfth and fifteenth you'll play right out to land's end, to greens as Bernard Darwin once described the 17th at North Berwick in Scotland.

The Farm at Cape Kidnappers - Building has started on the new lodge at Cape Kidnappers. Located on the North Island in Hawke's Bay. This region is one of New Zealand's most important and picturesque wine districts and vacation spots.

The new lodge, or 'The Farm' as it will be called, promises to be another iconic not to be missed experience. On the exterior the lodge will resemble a cluster of farm buildings, designed to blend with the rustic feel of the area. The interior will feature the same luxurious comfort and originality of Kauri Cliffs. Spacious cottages each with a breathtaking view, high ceilings, fireplaces and a large luxury bathroom, will fan out from the main building.

Golfers and non-golfers will have a luxurious place to stay while exploring Hawke's Bay's vineyards and other pleasures. The Farm at Cape Kidnappers will open in late 2007.
